2017: A Year for Exciting Changes

The Chilkat Valley Community Foundation serves the interests of our community with a “permanent fund” endowment set up for the Chilkat Valley. We support local nonprofits with grants and educational opportunities, bringing people together to improve community life now and for years to come. The CVCF also assists individuals to set up new funds that can serve a unique interest or need.

CVCF was founded in 2008 as an affiliate of The Alaska Community Foundation (ACF). We are locally governed by a volunteer advisory board. Our funds are professionally invested and managed by ACF, and we receive many levels of organizational support from ACF.

The Rasmuson Foundation, one of Alaska’s largest philanthropic organizations, has been a key player in helping ACF set up affiliate community foundations such as ours. Now, ACF and the Rasmuson Foundation have created a 4-year program to help boost the effectiveness of CVCF as well as other affiliates statewide.

In October 2016, Nina Kemppel, The Alaska Community Foundation President & CEO, and Sammye Pokryfki, Rasmuson Foundation Senior Vice President, visited our community and brought good news for the Chilkat Valley Community Foundation: many new levels of support will be made available for 2017-2020.

The Rasmuson Foundation is continuing its partnership with The Alaska Community Foundation to foster growth of the affiliates statewide through 2020. That support will bring exciting changes to the Chilkat Valley – changes that will be important to the local nonprofits and CVCF donors!

- ◆ Starting in January, CVCF will have a 25-hour-per-month staff person, funded through ACF and The Rasmuson Foundation, to help with administrative and clerical tasks. Thanks to Lynn Canal Corporation’s generosity, the staff person will be working from a rent-free office space in the Gateway Building, making it easy for YOU to stop by and visit.
- ◆ Additional training opportunities will be offered to CVCF board, staff and committee members during the next four years. Expert assistance for donors who wish to set up special funds, bequests, or other giving situations will be available from ACF staff as well.
- ◆ There will be additional support for affiliate operating expenses and grant making, AND wonderful matching opportunities for all donations.

What does all this mean to YOU? Greater opportunities to build community through giving and to help improve the quality of life in our community, today and in the future.

Watch for more details in 2017 on how your donations can help to continue the growth of your CVCF!

Donor Highlight

Alekka and Michael Fullerton knew that they loved the small-town friendliness and beauty of Southeast Alaska, but it took the prompting of their younger daughter, Anna, to convince them to pull up roots in Davis, California, and make the move North. "We all love it here," said Anna during a family vacation in Haines in August of 2015. "What's it going to take for us to move here?" That was it. They made an offer on a house in Haines, put their family home on the market in California and enrolled Anna for her junior year at Haines High School. "It was weirdly easy," says Alekka, "everything just fell into place."

Michael was the first to visit Alaska, traveling to Angoon for a fishing trip in 2002. "I was amazed with the beauty of Southeast Alaska," recalls Michael, "but it was hard to capture the magnificence of it when I returned home." He brought the family back for a cruise, and then again for an RV vacation, and finally a summer trip on the Alaska Marine Highway, which landed them in Haines on that fateful August day.

Alekka grew up in Davis, and the couple met in college. The son of an airline pilot who moved the family frequently, Michael craved stability and community, which they found in Alekka's hometown. A family law attorney in practice with her mom, Alekka volunteered for a women's shelter and started a crisis nursery for families who needed a safe place to bring their children. They raised their three children in Davis and were active with the Methodist church, the local PTA and their children's sports teams. Michael and Alekka recognized the same close-knit community and civic involvement in Haines, which is one of the reasons both say they felt comfortable here so quickly.

The family made a donation to the Chilkat Valley Community Foundation soon after they moved to town, after seeing an ad for the organization in the Chilkat Valley News about the Environmental Fund. Alekka then joined the board of the CVCF. They appreciate being able to support one organization that nurtures and supports so many nonprofits in the area, and have used their connection to CVCF as a way to get to know more about the important work that individual organizations are doing in the Chilkat Valley. "It's really important to focus on community and support good things that are happening locally," said Michael. For Michael that means local purchases, too, in order to support the town and people who live and work here. "We're all in this together," said Michael, "if you render it down to our common purpose."

Welcome to the Chilkat Valley, Fullerton family, and thank you for being a part of our community!
